PROM TICKETS GO ON SALE MONDAY; LIMITED TO 100

Junior Jamboree Saturday Morning a Unique Affair.

FRATERNITY STUNTS CUP ON EXHIBITION

Harvardians Radio Every Monday Night Over WBZ and WBZA.

Tickets for the Junior Prom will go on sale next Monday and will continue to be on sale until the limited number of one hundred tickets are sold. Due to the necessity of limiting the attendance to one hundred couples, the Prom Committee has set aside certain days when tickets may be bought by the members of the different classes. Monday has been reserved for the members of the Junior class, Tuesday for the Senior class, Wednesday for the Sophomore class and Thursday for the Freshman class.

After Thursday, the tickets may be bought by members of any of the classes but it is suggested that you at least reserve your ticket if you wish to attend the dance as the demand is expected to far exceed the supply. Tickets may be reserved by a deposit of two dollars but the tickets will not be given to the depositor until he has completed his payment. The subscription price is six dollars. Special headquarters, where tickets may be bought, are being planned and will be announced in advance.

The Harvardians, the orchestra selected by the Junior Prom Committee to play for the Prom, broadcasts over the radio every Monday night and it is suggested that you listen in and hear them. They broadcast through Stations WBZ Springfield, and WBZA Boston, between the hours of ten and ten-thirty under the name of Tobe Filterettes, a company manufacturing radio static filterers. Various reports have come in from Boston and especially from Cambridge, the home of the orchestra, and they say "The Harvardians are great". To hear this orchestra in full form, you should reserve your ticket for the Prom immediately.

SENIOR WOMEN SNEAK BREAKFAST WHILE JUNIORS SLEEP SOUNDLY

In the dark of the morn of Tuesday, April 9, at half past two o'clock the senior women succeeded in consuming the traditional sneak breakfast which according to custom is the farewell repast held by the graduating class some time before May 1, the presence of any Junior being taboo. No member of the class of 1929 absented herself from the field of action which lay in the vicinity of the covered bridge off Weybridge street. Such attendance is quite in keeping with the cross-country records established by these students last spring at a similar affair, and is likewise commendable.

Although a well balanced meal had been planned, the appetites of all were

COLLEGE GLEE CLUB GIVES FINAL CONCERT

Singing before a crowded and enthusiastic audience at the Congregational Church last night, the College Glee Club presented their final concert of the 1929 season. It was the only occasion afforded the local vicinity and undergraduates of hearing the runners up in the New England Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest give their complete program. To say that their performance was excellent would be but to repeat the eulogies of the club throughout the season. The men gave a finished and polished rendition of classical numbers which proved entertaining and drew enthusiastic applause from the audience. The club was directed by Professor Harry G. Owen and E. Emerson Waite '29. James Thomas '29 played several numbers upon the violin, and his work, as usual, was of the highest order. The College instrumental quartet, composed of Thomas '29, Davis '29, Ciavvara '31 and Locke '31 also drew applause from the appreciative listeners.

1931 KALEIDOSCOPE ANNOUNCES BOARD

Photography For Book To Be Done By W. K. Vantine.

The Board for the publishing of the 1931 Kaleidoscope was drawn up and announced at a meeting of the Staff held last Friday. The Literary Editors are Marshall H. Montgomery and Geraldine G. Griffin; Sports Editors, Ward S. Yunker and Ruth E. McNulty; Advertising, Alden C. Utton, manager, Lillian H. Becker and Roy E. Hardy, assistants; Circulation, Philip E. Brewer, manager, Edna B. Cottle and Albert V. Hanson, assistants; Organization-Editors, Harold S. King and Helen M. Legate; Art Editor, Robert G. Spencer; Photographic Editors, Albert E. Arnold and Virginia H. Bland; Social Events Editor, Mary E. Stolte; and Humor Editor, Samuel L. Abbott.

The contract for the photograph work for the annual, it was announced at the same meeting, has been given to The Warren Kay Studio at Boston under the direction of Mr. Warren K. Vantine. Mr. Vantine has had the contract for the past few years and the staff is working out some new ideas for the view section of the book.

Women Debaters Will Meet Univ. of Vermont

The Women's Debating team will meet the co-ed debaters of the University of Vermont Tuesday evening, April 23, at Mead Memorial Chapel. Middlebury will uphold the affirmative of the question, Resolved: That the present American jury system be abolished.

The team will be composed of Helen Perry, '30, Ellen Kellogg, '31, and Mary Henseler, '31. Sam Pattee, '29, is coaching the team.

MEMBERSHIP IN WIG AND PEN TO BE ON AN HONORARY BASIS

Enrollment in Drama Courses No Longer Prerequisite Election.

Members of the Junior class who have become prominent in dramatic work and play production will be eligible to membership in the Wig and Pen, whether or not they have been enrolled in any of the courses that heretofore have been prerequisite to election, according to a recent statement by Professor V. Spencer Goodreds. This new ruling has been made by the Wig and Pen in order that that body might include among its members students who have shown proficiency in the work of the organization, but have been unable to enroll in any of the play production courses.

It was originally intended that the Wig and Pen should be the administrative division of the drama department, but as the problems of the organization have become more intricate, much of the administrative work has been taken over by the department head, and therefore it has seemed best to make the Wig and Pen more of an honorary organization. The committee in charge of working out this new basis for choosing members was composed of student and faculty representatives as well as members of the play production classes.

Prof. Goodreds states that he believes that this new system whereby members of the Wig and Pen will be chosen both from the play production courses, and from the Junior class at large, will make election to that organization a real reward of true ability. He also adds that he will appoint a membership committee, which will look over the members of the Junior class outside of the play production courses, and invite certain ones to join the Wig and Pen. This committee will also consider applications for membership from Juniors interested and experienced in the field of dramatic work.

NEW CAMPUS BOARD INSTALLED AT INN

Annual Banquet Marks Passing of Old Staff; Pres. Moody Speaks.

The annual installation banquet of the Middlebury CAMPUS was held Friday night in the private dining room of the Middlebury Inn. President Paul D. Moody, Professor and Mrs. Raymond H. White, and Professor Harry G. Owen were guests of the retiring and incoming boards. Frank A. DeWitt, Jr., '29, Editor-in-Chief for 1928-1929 was toastmaster.

On introducing the first speaker of the evening, Frank A. Chromec '30, Editor-in-Chief for the next year, Mr. DeWitt presented him with the editorial pencil which is given each year to the new editor by the retiring Editor-in-Chief. The toastmaster provided the proper atmosphere for the next speaker by introducing a miniature specimen of the canine race.

President Moody told what an important position the CAMPUS plays in Middlebury College life, not only on the Hill but through its great mailing list. During his recent trip abroad, he said, his family found it one of the closest ties to the college, and its contents were eagerly devoured not only by them, but by other Middlebury people with whom they came in contact. He heartily commended the work done by the retiring board and voiced an expectation of even greater accomplishments by the incoming one.

Professor White, who acts in an advisory capacity to the CAMPUS, expressed his confidence in the new board.

Orchestra and Choir Preparing for Concert

The college choir and the college orchestra are preparing for a concert to be given in Mead Memorial Chapel on the evening of May 3. Several selections will be given by the orchestra of which Alfred Larsen is the conductor, and there will also be solos interspersed. Paine's "The Daughter of Jairus" will be sung by the choir, with L. J. Hathaway conducting. The soloists and the accompanists will all be students of the Music Department.

LOUISE J. DROWNE NEW STU. G. HEAD

Legate, Cruikshank, and McNulty Receive Offices.

Louise J. Drowne '30, was elected president of the Student Government Association at a meeting of that organization held April 11. Helen Legate '31, is the new vice-president, with Marion G. Cruikshank '30, as treasurer, and Ruth McNulty '31, secretary.

Miss Drowne has been Junior representative on Student Government Council for the current year and was House Chairman last year. She is a member of Y. W. C. A. Cabinet and was a delegate to the recent Northfield Conference. She is also on the Junior Prom Committee and the Pan Hellenic Council, and is vice-president of the Junior Class. She is a member of Alpha Xi Delta fraternity.

Miss Legate has been her class representative to Student Government Council for the past two years. She has also been prominent in athletics, having participated in volleyball, hockey and basketball, and is a member of the All Midd Basketball team. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity.

Miss Cruikshank has been prominent in dramatics, being a member of Wig and Pen and having had leading parts in several of the long productions, including the coming Junior Play "Not Herbert". She was secretary of the Debating club, and is a member of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Miss McNulty has been very outstanding in athletics and was on the W. A. A. Council her freshman year and secretary of that organization this year. She has been on several All Midd teams during the two years, including basketball and hockey. She was a member of the Soph Hop Committee and was recently appointed a member of the 1931 Kaleidoscope Board. She is a member of Sigma Kappa.

COMMITTEE ADOPTS COMPROMISE PLAN OF REORGANIZATION

Student Council Composed of Heads of Various Organizations.

PRESIDENT CHOSEN BY POPULAR VOTE

Nominating Committee to Include Senior Members of Each Fraternity.

A compromise which it is hoped combines the best features of both plans for reorganizing the undergraduate association was reached at a meeting of the committee on reorganization at which the proposers of the opposing plan were present.

The new plan provides for a student council composed of heads of various organizations rather than representatives of the fraternities. However, the nominating committee is to be composed of a senior from each fraternity and the neutral body.

The details of the plan are as follows: The student council shall consist of the presidents of the four classes, the president of the three honorary societies, the president of the "M" club and a representative of the publications to be elected by the combined boards. The President of the Undergraduate Association who is to be elected by popular vote of all men in college will be chairman of the council. Other officers of the association will be chosen by the council.

In event any other organization becomes important enough to warrant representation on the council it may petition the council that it be so represented. Any group not directly represented may bring the council any grievances which the council might remedy.

A nominating committee to be composed of a senior from each fraternity and from the neutral body elected by their respective groups shall choose not more than five candidates for the office of president for the coming year. Another name may be added by the undergraduate body if a petition containing the names of 25 per cent of the men is presented to the council.

The athletic council shall be composed of the captains of the four major sports and the captain of Hockey, Cross Country, or Tennis depending on which sport is in season. Captains-elect shall have the privilege of attendance but not of voting. In case one man is captain of two major sports he may choose which sport he will represent and a man to represent the other sport shall be chosen in some manner to be determined.

The above plan gives each group representation on the council and nominating committee.

FAREWELL AND HELLO.

This column may be dry and uninteresting, but be patient with us and we will try to make it more readable. We will put things into their simplest form or as Rev. Bell would put it, we will write in undergraduate terms. If you never read editorials read today's, because promises are going to be made. You'll never know you are getting cheated unless you know what has been promised to you.

First of all, and this with deep regret, we must bid the outgoing Board farewell. They have done their work more than well and have made noticeable improvements in the paper. The newly elected have something to strive for; it will be difficult to equal the work of the past year, to say naught of improving it, but we are young and have ambitions.

The old board have followed a policy of making the CAMPUS a student publication and of presenting as good a cross section of the college through its columns as possible, and we of the new Board will do all in our power to toe the chalk line drawn by them. Editorials will be written as much as possible from the student's point of view. Here we might quote the Haverford News:

"Editorials in the News (CAMPUS) do not necessarily represent the opinion of a majority of the undergraduates, faculty or alumni. They are designed instead to arouse intelligent discussion of such Haverford (Middlebury) problems as the News (CAMPUS) believes merit the consideration of those interested in the College. Constructive communications concerning Haverford (Middlebury) problems or the conduct of this newspaper, whether favoring or opposing the stand taken by this paper, are welcomed by the editor and will be published on this page."

To carry that further, please tell us when you don't like something; how are we to know what is wrong with the paper if no one tells us of our failings. That brings to mind the sign often seen in restaurants, "If you are pleased tell others, if not, tell us."

There has been some comment about the absence of alumni news in our columns. This situation is a difficult one to remedy, but an effort will be made to make the paper more interesting to the mailing list, if the alums would only cooperate with us and tell us now and then what is happening in their ranks. Our mailing list, also, is very small. Whose fault is that? It certainly can't be the business manager's, because several times during the year extra issues have been printed and sent to graduates of several years standing. There were appeals for subscriptions in these, but their response was negligible.

Here we might apologize for a few things. Our policy has been to put out a six page issue each week and to have more pictures, but this has been impossible because of the dearth of advertising in our issues this year. The old board has suffered financial difficulties because advertising agencies have decided to cut advertising in college publications to a considerable extent. The CAMPUS is not the only college paper that has had to pull the purse strings because of this. The business staff is making a slow but steady recovery from this situation by plying into other fields for advertising space.

Wamba is celebrating his first anniversary as contributor to this paper and agrees to remain on-officially on the CAMPUS Board for another year. There will also be a new student's column, a sample of which appears in today's issue. The purpose of it is to have a space for things that students may think of, that are of interest and yet cannot fit anywhere else into the paper. Anything whatsoever, humorous comments, poems, commendations, quips, submitted will be printed (With reservations). It will be entirely a student's column

DRAMA REVIEW

This is a day of new departures, even in the drama, and so Wig and Pen presented the same play two successive nights with different casts. As a consequence the critic is expected to unscramble his impressions and write up each presentation with discriminating candor and appreciation. I shall not attempt to satisfy so impossible a demand. The play, "The Thrice Promised Bride", was written by a young Chinese Student in one of the Carolina Playmaker classes under Professor Koch at the University of North Carolina. In the words of the program it "combines the Chinese tradition with the American form of dialogue." It was a most excellent selection for its purpose and was much enjoyed by both audiences.

For both productions the scenery was the same and finely conceived. It effectiveness was attained through simplicity of treatment in decoration and most careful attention to detail. The costuming of both groups blended excellently with the background and the whole made a most artistic impression for which Mr. MacClelland and Mr. King are to be congratulated. The co-operation of Sheldon's Chinese Gift Shop was most appreciated by all.

Far be it from me to draw invidious distinctions between the casts. As a whole the work of both was most meritorious. Individual touches were abundant which would lead to individual preferences in the acting. But in both casts the total effect was distinctly decorative; and thus fulfilled the requirements of the Chinese tradition, besides satisfying the American desire for individuality and distinction in characterization upon the part of the actors. In both acts the actors presented their parts with enough individuality to make their variant points of view toward them interesting; but with such excellent restraint as not to step out of the picture at any time. It showed clearly the great progress that has recently been made by Wig and Pen in the grasp of the essentials of dramatic production.

"The Wedding Anniversary", the curtain raiser, was luckily played upon a darkened stage. This blase and hardened generation could otherwise not have endured its blatant sentimentality. Mrs. Brown had a wedding anniversary on her hands which she couldn't manage. Truly she hadn't the slightest idea about how it should be conducted. You see it was her first. In their year of wedded bliss Mr. Brown had discovered his incompetence in such affairs. The result as presented by both casts was well-acted, but sad commentary upon sentimental experimentation.

BLUE BABOON REVIEW

After reading the last issue of the "Blue Baboon" one can understand Patrick Henry's famous dictum, "Give me liberty or give me death". The 1928 board has brought to a close their career above the thorny paths of comic journalism with an issue which for subtlety surpasses all previous efforts. Only the reader familiar with local affairs is able to appreciate the deep significance of certain of the pages. From the many delightful memorials of Middlebury life so delicately suggested by the frequent portraits of the cow, to those cutting exposes of the advertisements which entrap us all, the issue is completely humorous. The most remarkable feature of the issue is the comparative absence of smut. At least the younger generation have designated their preference for good clean fun, (or what is nearly that).

We do not remember having seen for many months a better comic issue than "Liberty". It surpasses even Lampton, of distinguished memories, and and will appear only when contributions are received. Alumni and faculty are cordially invited to contribute. When you think of something in your odd moments write it down, or if you feel ambitious write a whole column. This is a good way to get into print or to get back at Wamba.

The college bereaves the death of Dr. J. J. Ross and extends to his family its deepest sympathies.

MARSHALL HARDY, '26, WILL WED SYRACUSE GRADUATE

The engagement of Miss Catherine A. Latimer, daughter of Mrs. Adell D. Latimer of Syracuse, New York, to Marshall B. Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Hardy of Newport, was announced Thursday evening at a dinner party given at Drumlins' Country Club, Syracuse, by Mrs. Clayton S. Ingison of Rochester, New York.

Miss Latimer is a graduate of the College of Fine Arts, Syracuse University, and is affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi sorority and Pi Lambda Theta, honorary. She is just completing her first year as a member of the Music Department of Nottingham High School Syracuse.

Mr. Hardy is a graduate of Middlebury College, Class of 1926, and is affiliated with Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity and Phi Pi Epsilon, honorary. He is employed on the Advertising Staff of The Syracuse Journal-American and is Secretary of the Retail Division of The Syracuse Advertising Club. He is a brother of Roy E. Hardy, '31.

WAMBA SAYS

Ha, Ha, thought Wamba wasn't elected to the new CAMPUS Board, but he unanimously accepted to remain there for another year.

By the way, has anybody seen Wamba's bell (dumb)? No, not belle. You know he can't think without his thinking cap and he can't wear the cap unless it rings in his ears.

Rev. Bell does not give college students much credit for their intelligence. He must have read some of their exams.

What is the Glee Club to do now that the season is over? If something isn't suggested they will have to back to studying.

The people who threw away their overshoes during Easter Vacation had difficulty in keeping their feet dry during the recent mid-summer snowstorms. Which just goes to prove that the Scotchman was right when he said, "Don't ever throw anything away, it may come in handy some day".

Several members of the skiing team were out conditioning for next winter. You know there is so little snow during the regular season. The hockey team is also shining up their skates.

At the CAMPUS banquet of last Friday one of the speakers gave a very good talk, but it was not quite clear in parts because those in attendance forgot to bring their dictionaries. (How stupid of them).

The new Editor now has a pencil, the Editorial Pencil. "What is he to do with it? It is easier to get it framed than learn how to write.

The baseball manager must be quite a weather prophet. Lucky there are no games scheduled for this month. But it would be fun to throw snowballs at the umpire instead of pop bottles.

Have you made your date for the Prom yet or are you one of those overconfident and disillusioned Willies who think they can get a date in Middlebury in less than two week's notice?

The Junior play, they say, is Not Herbert, but who cares about what it isn't pressed his pleasure in being able to assist the paper in its work, and commented on the efficient way the paper has been conducted through the ability of the retiring board and its capable Editor-in-Chief. Lara T. Wheaton, '29, Women's Editor for the past year, officially welcomed the new board with confident hope of even better work to be accomplished in the ensuing year.

Dorothea E. Higgins, '30, who has been elected to Miss Wheaton's position, expressed the regret felt at the departure of the past board and said the new one would do their best to live up to the high standards set before them. Richard H. Amerman, '31, Managing Editor for the coming year, sketched briefly plans for the future, and Robert R. Herrick, '30, Business Manager, gave a report of the financial status of the paper. Professor Harry G. Owen, '23, ex-assistant editor of the CAMPUS, gave a reading on the history of afterdinner speeches, concluding with the good wishes of past boards and an expression of his confidence in the newly elected heads.

Senior Women Hold Successful Breakfast

they fulfilled their commissions prudently and altogether fittingly. When ghost-like whispers failed, hearty thumps and banging of doors were administered to the tune of "Senior Breakfast" staccato and fortissimo.

A few of the more gallant members of the class of 1930 roused themselves from their coma-like lethargies and sallied forth from the Chateau in search of the enemy. Three lights gleamed in Pearsons Hall and approximately half a dozen wavering footsteps were heard by other students in the women's college not directly concerned in the affair. Other than this the only demonstrations were the lusty cheering of the victors: 1-9-2-9.

The seniors are firm in their insistence that no sleeping powders were by means of quile or otherwise admitted to the already weakened organisms of their supposed opponents. It has been determined by reference to long and detailed tabulations at the Office of the Registrar that "That's what you get, folks, for making whoopee." In plain language, the spring vacation was both the original and the releasing cause of this unfortunate situation. Further data on this subject would no doubt be of great interest to both classes.

PROF. GOODREDS AND CADY TO WRITE FOR 1929 SILHOUETTE

Kenneth MacClelland, '31
Chosen as Art
Editor.

According to an announcement by A. Hamilton Lawson, editor of the 1929 Silhouette, work on this year's Wig and Pen annual is well under way. At the present time most of the cuts to be used have been chosen and several of the reviews have been prepared. In order to assure a more artistic booklet Kenneth MacClelland, the designer of several outstanding sets used in the Playhouse this season, including that of "The Thrice Promised Bride", has been added to the staff as art editor. Mr. MacClelland is making a special woodcut for the cover design which will be in harmony with the rest of the booklet.

Professors Cady and V. Spencer Goodreds have consented to write articles for the Silhouette. Professor Cady will write a retrospect and criticism of the season's activities and will compare it to past years. Professor Goodreds will write on "Playwriting in Middlebury". Middlebury is unique among smaller schools in having a department of drama where the student may write his play under professional guidance and then have the opportunity to see it produced before an audience. Both articles should be of special interest to all friends of the students and will help to make the booklet invaluable to local devotees of the drama.

The board has attempted to choose play photographs which have never been published before. For the most part these photographs have been chosen because of some unusual interest in composition or in sets used. There will be cuts of the three Swift Prize plays of last season and over ten other cuts of this season's work. There will also be a full page cut of the interior of the Playhouse and another of the Wig and Pen.

As soon as printer's estimate is accepted the board will announce a definite price, as near cost as possible. Subscriptions will be taken by any member of the Silhouette board or Wig and Pen. There will be a limited number of copies printed so it is advisable to subscribe soon in order to be sure of getting a copy.

Helen Walcott '30 was elected president of Y. W. C. A. for the coming year at the annual meeting of that organization for that purpose, Wednesday, April 10. Nita Willets '30 was elected Vice President; Betty Oetjen '31, treasurer; and Marion Singiser '32 secretary.

Miss Walcott has been prominent in Y. W., having been the treasurer last year, and a Middlebury representative to the Northfield Conference. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Miss Willets has been a Y. W. Cabinet member, is secretary-treasurer of the German Club, a member of the English Club, and is affiliated with Phi Mu.

Miss Oetjen has been secretary of Y. W., is a member of the Biology Club, and a member of Alpha Xi Delta.

Miss Singiser is the Freshman

Women's Gym Classes Hold Final Contest

The Freshmen and Sophomore classes in physical education will hold their final competition this evening at eight o'clock at the McCullough Gymnasium. This meet marks the end of a series of competitions in elementary floor work, apparatus, tactics and mass games. The Sophomore dancing classes will also take part in this exhibition without competing. The Junior and Senior girls who are interested in physical education are teaching and judging the results.

The program is as follows:

1. Gymnastic lesson by Freshmen—Winifred Miller in charge; 2. Gymnastic lesson by Sophomores—Mary Tudhope in charge; 3. Folk dancing by the Sophomores; 4. Tactics by the Freshmen and Sophomores—Esther Benedict in charge; 5. Potato relay by Freshmen and Sophomores—Eloise Comtois in charge; 6. Indian Clubs by Freshmen and Sophomores—Rose Marchiano in charge; 7. Natural dancing by Sophomores; 8. Apparatus work by Freshmen and Sophomores; Horse—Rose Marchiano in charge; Buck—Sigrid Manty in charge; Ropes—Eloise Comtois in charge; 9. Costume dancing by Sophomores.

HAND BALL TOURNEY IS WELL UNDER WAY

Interesting Play-offs in Sight
With Four Teams
Left.

The Intramural Handball Tournament is now well under way with only four teams left at the end of the first round. The competition has been very close throughout and promises a very close and exciting play-off for the cup.

In the preliminary round the Neutral team defeated the Chi Psi trio in three straight matches. The other teams drew "byes" in this round. In the first round Sigma Phi Epsilon defeated the Beta Psi team 2-1, Delta Kappa Epsilon defeated Alpha Sigma Phi 3-0, Beta Kappa squeezed a 2-1 win from the Neutrals, and Kappa Delta Rho vanquished the Delta Upsilon trio 3-0.

This leaves four strong teams to play-off the semi-final round. S. P. E. will tackle the strong D. K. E. team, and B. K. will play the K. D. R. delegation. The only one of these contests played so far was Baker, B. K. and Fowlston K. D. R., in which match Baker was victorious. It is impossible to predict the outcome of these contests as all the teams are very strong which gives promise of a close, exciting finish.

Middlebury Alumnae In New York Organize

The first step in the organization of the alumnae of Middlebury College in New York was begun at a luncheon held April 6 at the Panhellenic of that city.

Many of the college alumnae have frequented the Panhellenic recently, the report continues, and it is likely that the greatest manifested will result in the formation of an active group. At the meeting much enthusiasm was shown, and it was agreed that meetings should be held at least twice a year, the next gathering to be held in October.

Those present at the Panhellenic meeting include:

Ruth A. Wright, '21, Elsie Monteith, '18, Ruth M. Bryant, '18, Laura Mead, '15, Bessie Cudworth, '13, Hazel Grover, '19, Sarah Kortright, '15, Laura Fales, '19, Alice Fales, '28, Helen Vaughn, '17, Katherine Ball, '17, Margaret Chatfield, '18, Mary Alice Barker, '27, Mary Wright Upson, '15, Ruth Hesselgrave, '18, Ann Clark Mott, '20, Emma Feeney, '15, Eva Leland Salisbury, '17, Elizabeth M. Conlon, '21, Anna G. Lewis, '27, Ruth Cann, '19, Helen McNulty, '23, Anne Smith, '06.

representative to W. A. A. Council, was captain of Freshman Hockey, and made the All Midd Hockey team. She was also a member of the volley ball and basketball squads. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Those postponed sleigh rides could have been held had we known that the weather man was going to treat us this way.

"VERMONT SPECIAL" ON EXHIBITION TRIP

College Exhibits Booklets
And Views in State Display.

The "Vermont Special," a train exhibiting the state's resources, manufactured products, and scenic attractions, is at the present time making a tour of the country as far west as the Rockies.

The train left Burlington, Tuesday, April 9, and is expected to return to that place by Friday of this week. Stops of a few hours each are being made in the following cities: Springfield, Mass.; Newark, N. J.; Trenton, N. J.; Wilmington, Del.; Washington, D. C.; Richmond, Va.; Raleigh, N. C.; Columbia, S. C.; Atlanta, Ga.; Birmingham, Ala.; Memphis, Tenn.; Little Rock, Ark.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Wichita, Kan.; Kansas City, Mo.; Lincoln, Neb.; Des Moines, Iowa; and Chicago, Ill. The return route will bring the exhibit through the Canadian cities, Toronto and Montreal.

This tour of exhibition has been planned by the Central Vermont Railway. Manufacturers, hotels, municipal groups, agriculturists, and other individuals and organizations have arranged

Mrs. Purdy, '22 Gives First Vocational Talk

Mrs. Dorothy Douglas Purdy, '22, who has achieved outstanding success in her chosen field spoke to the women, Thursday afternoon in Pearsons Social Hall, on "store work". Mrs. Purdy first cautioned the future retailer against selling her happiness for money, for although retailing is a remunerative field, it is exacting in time and energy. Success demands unusual energy, common-sense and executive ability.

In her talk, Mrs. Purdy emphasized strongly the infinite amount of energy required for success. "Discouragements are countless, and energy, common sense, and intelligence in goodly amounts are the only remedy. Of course it is necessary to go to a large city but do not go unless you feel you can adapt yourself and be satisfied with city life. Contrary to the general idea, smaller stores and specialty shops are apt to offer better opportunities for individual attention and a chance to work up. On account of the many applications received by mail, the only way to obtain a job is to go in person and apply. Do not be discouraged if you do not get on the first time, you will in the end.

"On the other hand," she continued, "the large department stores have most unlimited opportunities in any field for the college-trained man of ability. The very large department or personnel department or personal shopping departments call for a young woman of taste, tact and intuition. The comparison department is also a very important part of the department store. Merchandising demands a love of detail and a knowledge of economics and the market. The special service department allows contact with the employees of the store. Sales experts are well paid and heights to which one may rise are limited. Hand in hand with the expert, works the buyer, who, her, and the advertising and departments which popularize the new fashion.

"Personality and attitude are important factors in business success. It is not necessary to grow hard to be successful," said Mrs. Purdy in conclusion.

This is one of a series of vocational talks which will be presented by alumnae of the college as a part of the college's vocational guidance program.

Conquering the Cascades

SNOW falls every month in the year where the Great Northern crosses the Cascades. Steep, tortuous grades increase the difficulty of the railroading problem. Nature has stubbornly resisted man's effort to conquer the range.

In January, 1929, the new Cascade tunnel was opened. Man, with electricity as an ally, had conquered the Cascades.

The eight-mile bore was driven in three years—a record impossible without electric power. And electrification has been extended to the entire 75-mile route through the mountains.

The conquests of electricity on the land and on the sea, in the air, and underground, are making practicable the impossibilities of yesterday. As our vision encompasses wider horizons, electricity appears as a vital contribution to future industrial progress and human welfare.

Entries in Swift Contest Turned Over to Committee

Professor V. Spencer Goodreds of the Drama Department, announces that the plays entered in the annual Swift Play-Contest have been turned over to the committee of judges. The number of plays received was surprisingly large and may be considered indicative of the great interest in this field among undergraduates. The committee to judge the manuscripts has already been appointed, and consist of Prof. F. W. Cady, chair- President P. D. Moody, and Prof. Owen. Prof. Goodreds states that judges will grade the plays upon a basis of structural quality, dramatic composition and originality. The four plays which receive the highest rating will be produced some time in May. At this time they will be again, on a basis of presentation, effectiveness, and three of the plays will receive the Swift prizes, of $75, $50, and $25. It is expected that the judges will soon be able to announce what plays have been chosen by them for production.

ZOOLOGISTS TAKE TRIP TO NEW YORK

Twelve members of the vertebrate class, Biology Department, accompanied by Professor Samuel E. Longwell and Miss Harriet M. Boyd, spent Friday and Saturday, March 29 and 30, in New York visiting the Natural History Museum, and the Zoological Gardens.

Members of the party left Middlebury Thursday. The first day in New York was devoted to the American Museum of Natural History. The group spent all day in the building and then went sight seeing in the evening.

The Bronx Zoological Gardens, which have one of the largest and finest collections of animals in the world, were visited Saturday morning. At noon several of the group returned to their homes. The trip proved of value to the students and served as a pleasant beginning for vacation.

Those making the trip were Professor Longwell and Miss Boyd, the Misses Thomas, '30, Lucia, '30, Turner, '30, etgen, '31, Wellman, '31, McNulty, '31, undas, '31, and Saunders, '31, and the Messrs. Waugh, '29, Utton, '31, Wilson, '30, and Newman, '30.

Chi Psi Holds Annual Ball in New Lodge

Over fifty enthusiastic couples were present last Saturday evening at the Chi Psi Lodge to enjoy the annual dinner dance given by the fraternity. The affair was a new departure from the previous custom of having the Ball at the Inn, but was an eminently satisfactory arrangement although the facilities of the new house were taxed to the utmost.

Music for the evening was provided by Shepard and Swanson of New London, Conn., whose 6-man 27 piece orchestra has proved most popular this season throughout the East. They have played at Yale, Amherst and Wesleyan recently. They were at the Senior Ball at Middlebury last June, and have been a fixture at Chi Psi balls of the past few years. Novelty numbers were numerous and were greatly enjoyed. A parody on "Christopher Columbus", "Mississippi Mud"—a request number, and many other surprise innovations pleased the assemblage.

Beginning with the dinner served at five-thirty, the ball lasted until midnight. At this time members of the fraternity gathered in a group and sang several songs in honor of the fraternity. Patrons and patronesses of the evening were Professor and Mrs. Ernest C. Bryant, Dr. and Mrs. Stanton S. Eddy, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Stewart.

Guests from the other houses on campus include Arthur Hingston, Alpha Sigma Phi; Warren R. Witt, Psi; John Owen, Delta Kappa Epsilon; Beta Kappa; Robert W. Meader, Beta Forrest J. Spooner, Delta Upsilon; Morris T. Johnson, Kappa Delta Rho; Thad R. Jackson, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Kenneth A. Shutts.

HOME ECONOMICS LUNCHEON

Class in Home Economics 32 will serve luncheon for sixteen in the Home Economics Laboratory at 12:30 P.M. Friday, April 19. Tickets may be purchased from members of the class.

LATEST ADDITION TO FRATERNITY ROW

NEW HOME OF ALPHA MU OF CHI PSI

With the close of the Easter recess, members of Alpha Mu of Chi Psi entered their new lodge, which has been under construction since June 1928. The house is complete in every particular, and an excellent illustration of contemporary fraternity house architecture. It is built of grey limestone in harmony with the older of the college buildings. Directly facing across from the Delta Upsilon House, the new house possesses one of the most desirable locations on campus. With the addition of the new lodge, Middlebury is rapidly on the way to securing a more complete Fraternity row. There are now three houses on the College Street to the east of the college campus.

Upon entering the new house, which will soon be opened to public inspection, a grey flagstone hallway is met which extends to the right leading to the cloak room and office. Immediately to the left is seen an elaborate staircase leading to the upper stories, while beyond the stairs is the entrance to the living room. This room is furnished with dark green leather davenports and comfortable chairs, benches and reading lamps all against a background of unusually effective wall paper depicting old English hunting scenes. A black marble fireplace adds much to the harmony of the decorations in the room.

The dining room occupies the rear center of the first floor, and adjoins the living room. Here the decorations are again comfortable and tasteful, the striking wall paper merging inconspicuously against the homelike effect of the tables, chairs and the sunken lighting fixtures. The dining room overlooks a flagstone terrace, which may be reached through French windows immediately adjoining.

An elaborately equipped kitchen is situated next to the dining room, and contains the most modern appliances for the preparation and service of food. To the rear of the kitchen is a combined storeroom and butler's pantry, in which are kept much of the supplies on hand. The basement contains room for the heating plant, trunk room, store-rooms, fuel space and the housekeeper's suite.

The second floor is devoted entirely to study rooms. Each is equipped with the latest type oak desks, study lamps, closets, rugs and chairs. The several rooms have been constructed in graduated sizes, and may contain from two to four members. The third story accommodates the linen closets and two large dormitories.

The architect for the lodge was H. H. Wheeler of New York City, and the interior decorating was done by Mrs. Lewis, well known in the field, also of New York City. Cummings and Company of Ware, Mass., were the builders.

Slight Increase In College Enrollment

Reports received by Dean Raymond Walters of Swarthmore College from 216 colleges and universities throughout the United States which are on the approved list of the Association of American Universities show an increase of 2% in enrollment, the smallest annual gain since the war. Increases are reported in 115 institutions, and decreases in 101 institutions, comparing registrations with those of a year ago. In twenty-six states there are more full time students in approved colleges and universities than in 1927, and in twenty-two states there are fewer such students. The 1928 full-time enrollment of the 216 institutions totals 417,526.

Dean Walters quotes various suggested explanations of the enrollment decreases, such as agriculture and industrial conditions, the development of Junior Colleges, a trend in certain areas away from small colleges to the state universities, and deliberate limitation of enrollment. Of the small colleges having enrollment up to 500 students, twenty-four report increases, and thirty report decreases; of institutions of 500 to 1,000 thirty have increases, and thirty-one decreases; institutions of 1,000 to 3,000 students, thirty-four have increases, and twenty-two decreases; universities of 3,000 and upward, twenty-seven report increases, and eighteen decreases. In full-time enrollment, the University of California (including divisions of both Berkeley and Los Angeles) leads with 17,357 students. Columbia University is second with 13,691, University of Illinois third with 12,150, University of Minnesota fourth with 11,815, and University of Michigan fifth with 10,954. Counting also part-time and summer session students, the ranking is as follows: Columbia 32,036, College of the City of New York 28,287, California 26,562.

ESSAY CONTEST FOR COLLEGE AVIATORS

Airplane and Aeronautical Scholarship to be Awarded.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—As a result of an unusual amount of collegiate interest in the Alexander Eaglerock Awards for 1929, both an Eaglerock airplane and an aeronautical scholarship will be awarded this year to college students, according to an announcement by J. Don Alexander, head of the Alexander Aircraft company here.

Contestants are now asked to specify whether they are competing for the Eaglerock or the four-year university scholarship. The scholarship has been established in the Daniel Guggenheim School of Aeronautics at New York University.

Four short papers on aeronautics, written as briskly and containing as many practical ideas as possible, are required of the competing students. The manuscripts must be submitted to the Committee on Awards before May 31.

Prof. Alexander Klemm, head of the Guggenheim school at New York University, is chairman of the committee which will select the successful candidate for the scholarship. A second committee, composed of prominent Colorado educators, aeronautical engineers and pilots of the Alexander Aircraft company, will award the Eaglerock. The awards will be made June 1.

The contest is intended to interest American college students in commercial aviation, now rated ninth in the ranks of American industries.

BIOLOGY MOVIE TO BE SHOWN SOON

Stages in Growth of Cells Subject of Novel Movie.

Undergraduates will have an unusual opportunity Friday evening, May 3 of seeing educational films presented by the Department of Biology under the direction of Professor Samuel E. Longwell at the Opera House.

There films are travelling across the continent from the University of California Etenxison Disicion under the auspices of various colleges. Here they will be shown in connection with the regular movie program on the above date and will occupy about 45 minutes.

The Canti films were recently shown in New York City to the American Association For the Advancement of Science and aroused more interest than any other part of the week's program. This is the first successful effort to depict on the screen actual growth of living tissue. It includes both normal tissue in the fowl and cancer tissue from the rat.

The growth of tissues apart from a living individual was accomplished first some years ago at the Rockefeller Institute, New York City. But the development of technique to show in movie rees the actual stages of such growths, has been developed recently in England, as a part of the investigations on cancer. The cinematograph camera was made by Williamson and takes 400 feet of standard film. The culture is electrically incubated, growth takes place, the tissue is magnified, and the film automatically exposed at desired intervals by means of a clock. At each exposure of the growing tissue the face of the clock also is photographed at one corner of the film. In this manner thousands of exposures were made. When these successive photographs are speeded up the spectator sees cells actually alive in their behavior during growth and physiological activities. In one case even the chromosomes may be seen dividing and in another place the phagocytes, similar to the white cells in the human blood, are seen migrating from place to place through the living tissue.

UNIVERSITY CRUISE NEWS ANNOUNCEMENT

The University World Cruises are no longer educational experiments. The 1929-30 Cruise continues, in an improved form, the educational program and ideals of the pioneer Floating University of 1926-27 and the second University World Cruise of 1928-29. All academic work is under the direction of professors from leading American universities which co-operate in making the University Cruises successful.

The Third University World Cruise represents, in every essential, a complete University traveling around the world.

Like its two predecessors, the 1929-30 Cruise is organized by the University Travel Association of New York City. The famous Cunard Steamship Company is handling all details of ocean transportation. The widely known En Route Service, Inc., of the Savoy-Plaza Hotel, New York, acts as Business Managers for the Cruise and is in charge of all travel and sightseeing. The co-operation of these three organizations gives this Cruise an unquestionable backing and prestige.

A further report concerning the personnel of the Cruise will be published in an early issue.

WHY NOT YOU

To award a first prize to a person who has met with no competition in his endeavor is hardly a fair thing to do, but it is sometimes inevitable, and it is on this position that the awarders of the Deacon Boardman Peace Prize have sometimes found themselves. The prize of thirty dollars is given to the junior who writes the best essay on the subject of peace and it is hoped that this year a sufficient number of essays will be submitted to make the winning of the prize something more than a joke.

The subject ought to be especially attractive this year when the study of the problems connected with it is engrossing the world and when their proper solution of such infinite importance in the progress of human civilization. If the opportunity appeals to you don't fail to take advantage of it and now is the time to "get busy".

Editors note: This announcement made ten years ago is appropriate at the present time. Juniors who heard President Moody's statement in chapel last week should get to work soon and make this year's contest a real success.

MIDDLEBURY GRAD TO MARRY

The engagement of Eric W. Smith '25, to Miss Kathryn H. Botsford of Rutland, has recently been announced. Mr. Smith, who is the son of Mrs. Charleton Smith of Middlebury, is a graduate of the Bliss Electrical School of Washington. The wedding will take place sometime in June.

NEW EINSTEIN THEORY

SCRIPT AT WESLEYAN

Wesleyan University has acquired the original manuscript of Prof. Albert Einstein's new theory combining the laws of mechanics and the laws of electricity. The treatise is described as the most remarkable mathematical document that has ever found lodgment in American college archives. This document represents the mathematical statement of a scientific theory which it has been said that not more than 12 men understand at the present time.

FORMER MEMBER OF FACULTY DIES HERE

Dr. J. J. Ross, formerly head of the College Physical Education Department, died last week at Porter Memorial Hospital. His sudden death, which came as the result of complications resulting from a recent operation for appendicitis, was a great loss to his many college friends.

Jacob Johnson Ross was born in Huntington, Vermont, July 14, 1877, the only son of Austin H. and Catherine Johnson Ross. After preparation in the public schools of Huntington he entered Montpelier seminary with the class of 1900, and in 1904 was graduated from the Agricultural Department of the University of Vermont, securing his Doctorate in Medicine from the Medical department of that institution in 1908. After serving as interne in the Mary Fletcher hospital, Burlington, he was married to Miss H. Elizabeth Holmes of Charlotte, Vt., June 12, 1909. They established their home in Richmond where they lived until 1913, Dr. Ross serving that town as Health Officer in addition to his private medical practice. From 1913 to 1915 Dr. Ross was connected with the Department of Physical Education at Syracuse University, leaving there in 1915 to take charge of the Boys' hospital at the Berry schools, Rome, Ga.

In 1917 Dr. Ross brought his family to Middlebury where he was in charge of the Department of Physical Education at Middlebury college until the United States entered the World War. He early offered his services as medical officer and served overseas as Lieutenant of the 17th Aero Squadron, returning home at the close of the war with the rank of captain. Upon resuming medical practice in Middlebury Dr. Ross continued his interest in military service being given the rank of Major in the Reserve Corps. He was a member of the American Legion and was especially interested in the affairs of the local Post.

Miss Ruth Emery Cann '18 Gives Fine Vocal Recital

A delightful vocal recital was given by Miss Ruth Emery Cann last Friday evening in the Congregational Church. Miss Cann is a graduate of Middlebury in the class of 1918 and her friends here were glad of this opportunity to hear her. Her singing showed evidence of the careful training that she received during several years' study in Paris. Her voice is of unusual quality and her recital gave great pleasure to a highly appreciative audience.

In Mozart's "Non so piu cosa son, cosa faccio" her technique was especially fine. The selection from Herodiade by Massenet and other French numbers were delightfully rendered.

Miss Prudence Fish furnished admirable accompaniments, which added much to the enjoyment of the program.

The complete program for the recital was as follows:

- I. (a) Gia il sole dal Gange-Scarlatti
(b) Caro mio ben-.....Giordani
(c) Non so piu cosa son, cosa faccio-.....Mozart
- II. (a) An' can ye sew Cushions-arr. by Taylor
(b) Drink to me only with thine eyes-arr. by R. Biggs
(c) The sleep that flits on Baby's eyes-.....John Alden Thompson
(d) My heart is like a singing bird-.....Woodman
- III. (a) Ich grolle Nicht-Schumann
(b) Die Rose, Die Lilie, Die Taube-.....Schumann
(c) L'Amour est un Enfant Trompeur-.....Weckerlin
(d) Berceuse-.....Tchaikowsky
(e) Il est doux (from Herodiade)-.....Massenet
- IV. (a) Chanson Norvegienne-.....Fourdrain
(b) Les Cloches-.....Debussy
(c) D'Une Prison-.....R. Hahn
(d) L'Enfant et les Sortiliges-.....M. Ravel

PLANS FOR JUNIOR WEEK BRIDGE PARTY

Fraternity Stunt Program To Be Held Friday Morning.

The initiation of the bridge and dance as a new feature on the Junior Week program this year, promises, according to all pre-season "dope", to be one of the extraordinary events on the social calendar of the year. The Program Committee, with Mr. Wells as Chairman, have the evening's plans completed and are now waiting for the date to present itself.

The affair is to be held at the Middlebury Inn on Thursday evening, May 9, beginning at 7:15 o'clock and lasting until 11:00 o'clock. Bridge tables will be arranged in cabaret style in the lounge and enough space will be reserved for dancing between games, the music to be furnished by the well-known Fenderson's Trio, who have played for numerous Tea Dances at the Inn. Appropriate tally cards will be furnished and prizes will be awarded for both high and low scores. The Committee has provided for the serving of refreshments throughout the evening.

Arrangements should be made now among the undergraduates to make up tables, and if two or more tables desire to cooperate and play progressive bridge, they should inform the Committee of this plan.

The tickets for the event will be on sale soon, the subscription being $1.25 per couple. Reservations for tables and choices should be made at that time or as soon after as possible.

WOMEN'S CLUB HOLDS MEETING AT STUDIO

The music department of the Women's Club met Wednesday afternoon at the Music Studio. Professor Hathaway gave a lecture on French composer from the seventeenth century down to the present time. He explained the different schools of music. In illustration, Miss Orpha Brown played "Tourbillon" by Charbrier; Miss Cleone Ford played a prelude by Dukas; James Thomson played the first movement from Cezar Franck's "Sonata in A" on the violin; "Gnosienne", by Erik Satie, was played by Miss Ruth Maltby; Mrs. Doris Fowler played "The Little Shepherd", a prelude, and "Galliwog's Cake-walk", all by Debussy. Miss Ruth Cann sang Ravel's "Saint". Mr. Thomson also played the "Spanish Dance" by De Falba.

The program was concluded with a lullaby sung by Miss Prudence Fish and "Sequidilla Murciana" by Mrs. LaCalle, both Spanish songs by DeFalba. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Slocum, Mrs. Maynard, Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Bryant.

WARDEN B. I. BELL SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

Vespers Sermon Has Theme of Death and Life Achievement.

Warden B. I. Bell, of St. Stephen's College preached a vigorous and compelling sermon in chapel Sunday. He took as his theme "Death" from the text: "Man goes forth to his labor and work until evening."

Death is regarded in this day with extraordinary sentimentality. An attempt is made to forget, by pretense, its very existence. Funerals are made as little like funerals as possible. Bodies are dressed and roughed into morbid and uncouth semblance of life. The very word, death, is avoided; although it is the only fact men are absolutely sure to share in common. We make most of our mistakes because of this attitude toward death. We live for the things forgotten after death: money, prestige, applause. This is a character of modern thought.

What shall we live for? Passion? It is soon dead. Children? They have their own lives to live. Where did life come from? Where does it lead to? There is a gambler's chance that it does go on. The strongest proof of this lies in man's everlasting conviction in this fact. Otherwise life would be a meaningless futility. Men endure trials through youth and old age because life still is in the future.

It is a futile thing to ask the undergraduates about religion. He has been protected from everything that teaches of life. His doubts may be due to ignorance in being too young. The only one interested in your doubts is yourself.

It is only the inner life that matters; the inner life attained by the pursuit of truth, the search for the significant facts behind. Truth is the meaning for facts. Truth and the search for it enrich the soul by the attempt to create beauty. Every time we make a thing of beauty there is enrichment.

Junior Week Committee Lines Up Big Program

The 1930 Junior Week has announced that the Interfraternity Stunt program will be held at nine o'clock Friday morning, May 10, at the Middlebury Opera House.

In the past, competition for the best stunt has been one of great rivalry and as a result, programs of high calibre have been presented. This year, the competition is expected to be even greater than in years past, especially due to the beautiful loving cup that is to be given to the fraternity presenting the best stunt. The cup has already been obtained and is now on exhibition in the window of Stone's Store on Main Street. Each fraternity is urged to get their idea started immediately.

According to a statement from the Junior Week Committee, plans are nearing completion for the college outing Saturday morning, May 11. Never before in the history of Middlebury, has the Junior Class sponsored an affair as this year's Junior Jamboree. Its institution is being looked upon by the students with interest and a large turnout is assured.

The Jamboree is to assume the most important role of the morning's activities and will follow the annual competition between the Sophomore and Freshman classes for superiority in the rope pull. Directly following the close of the rope pull, the couples will leave the gymnasium, following a trail at the end of which several prizes will be found. This trail will incidentally lead to the outing grounds where a luncheon will be served.

Eligibility to enter the Jamboree is open to all members of the College and their guests. Tickets will be sold for a very small price per couple to cover the cost of the luncheon, which will be served by members of the Y. W. C. A.

The prizes to be found at the end of the trail have been selected and will serve the double service of being good souvenirs as well as useful articles for the men and women alike.

Outings of this nature are very well known in many colleges and universities and the students entering them have a memorable few hours of recreation and fun. The Committee feels that Middlebury will accept the idea in the same manner as it has been accepted in other places and is now waiting for nothing but the day, and incidentally good weather.

DEBATERS LOSE TO ST. MICHAEL'S TEAM

Visitors Uphold Negative On Jury Abolition Question.

The Middlebury College debating team, upholding the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, that the American jury system should be abolished", lost by a unanimous decision to the St. Michael's speakers, in a debate held Monday evening in Mead Memorial Chapel. The representatives of the negative were Arthur Coulture, Joseph Bartlett, and Samuel Fortin. Speakers for Middlebury were Richard Amerman '31, Raymond Saulnier '29, and Sam W. Pattee '29.

The affirmative attacked the jury system on three grounds. First they showed that it constituted a social menace, second that it embodied economic waste, and third that there is a better system for rendering justice. The work of the negative speakers was divided almost equally between refutation of the arguments advanced by the affirmative, and the establishment of an opposing constructive case. The visitors emphasized especially the important position that the jury system occupies in our present method of government, and maintained that to weaken the jury is to destroy the balance of power that is so integral a part of our constitutional theory.

This debate was the last one on Middlebury's schedule, and also the final college forensic contest for two speakers, Mr. Pattee, and Mr. Saulnier, both of whom are seniors, and will be lost by graduation in June.

Malam and Lee Investigate Origin of "Wig and Pen"

When the local dramatic club was organized a few years ago, the name "Wig and Pen", was suggested by William Purdy '26. Mr. Purdy had discovered it as the name of a tea house on Fleet Street in London, England. At the time, the title was chosen because it seemed to imply both acting and playwriting. Storrs Lee and Charles Malam in a recent visit to the same teahouse inquired of the proprietor the origin of the name. They learned that the "Wig" stands for Law and the "Pen" for Journalism. Thus it can be seen that the name of our dramatic club is a little incongruous if the original meanings of the two words are considered.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

All students desiring to use typewriters in the final examinations should notify Miss Bristol in the Registrar's Office on or before May 1, 1929.
